

DFE guidance April 2019 states that local authorities may specify requirements as to effectiveness ... in deciding whether education is suitable, whilst accepting that this must be applied in relation to the individual child's age, ability and aptitude. Children will be at different levels, some may be in advance, some at a lower level and some children may be working towards the minimum standard. Our Home Education Advisor will discuss where you think your child is and what your plans are in relation to providing a suitable education.

A high-quality history education will help students gain a coherent knowledge and understanding of Britain's past and that of the wider world. It should inspire students' curiosity to know more about the past. Teaching should equip students to ask perceptive questions, think critically, weigh evidence, sift arguments, and develop perspective and judgement. History helps students to understand the complexity of people's lives, the process of change, the diversity of societies and relationships between different groups, as well as their own identity and the challenges of their time.

The national curriculum for history aims to ensure that all students:

- know and understand the history of these islands as a coherent, chronological narrative, from the earliest times to the present day: how people's lives have shaped this nation and how Britain has influenced and been influenced by the wider world
- know and understand significant aspects of the history of the wider world: the nature of ancient civilisations; the expansion and dissolution of empires; characteristic features of past non-European societies; achievements and follies of mankind
- gain and deploy a historically grounded understanding of abstract terms such as 'empire', 'civilisation', 'parliament' and 'peasantry'
- understand historical concepts such as continuity and change, cause and consequence, similarity, difference and significance, and use them to make connections, draw contrasts, analyse trends, frame historically-valid questions and create their own structured accounts, including written narratives and analyses
- understand the methods of historical enquiry, including how evidence is used rigorously to make historical claims, and discern how and why contrasting arguments and interpretations of the past have been constructed
- gain historical perspective by placing their growing knowledge into different contexts, understanding the connections between local, regional, national and international history; between cultural, economic, military, political, religious and social history; and between short- and long-term timescales.

For details on the subject content, please see the National Curriculum for Key Stages 3 and 4

Example minimum expectations

Camden in line with DFE guidance has set some example minimum expectations for education in Maths and English for each Key stage – See Section 2.10 in parents guidance and 9.4 to 9.6 in LA guidance. There is no requirement for you to follow these examples

These are indications for parents and our advisor to get a better understanding of the education your child is receiving. We recognise that children will be on journey in their education some child will be at expected level, some will be in advance of their key stage indicator, some may be working towards the indicator or some children due to their education needs maybe below the indicator. You may find that children can do some elements of the different indicators as well.

Knowing where your child is can be helpful for you in setting work for them, ensuring it is appropriate for them but can also help you know where they could be “stretched” or work needs to be reviewed. It will also enable our home education advisor to offer a tailored set of advice for each child and make suggestions for parents so they can help support their child reach the minimum expectations where appropriate.

March 2021